Seen, Heard and Told

By The Editor

This issue is dedicated to the boys of Headquarters Battery, the home company of Grenada.

They were inspected by Lt. Col. Albert Lake Wednesday. I would have gone over to spegk to my old friend "Sinter all butt lake" but for the fact I needed a shave so badly, and I heard him giving a soldier hell about needing a shave.

All of his friends, including this writer, are deeply concerned over the condition of Jim Elliott, supervisor of Beat 5, who at this writing (Wednesday night) is ill in Grenada Hospital.

Frich Horton, the best supervisor Beat One has had in two terms, recently renewed.

Dear Santa: please bring me a thicker skull. Fred Sullens.

Dear Santa: please bring me abigger walking stick. P. B. J.

I lay around and rest so much that folks will soon begin to believe I am a preacher. No, no, just feeling badly, and figuring on going back to the hospital for a while.

This rainy, cold weather is mighty hard on Revell's white-face bull yearling.

As an afterthought, maybe they can put a furnace under the new toilet room at the court house and evaporate the sewage. We want to be helpful always.

National Guards Honored By American Legion

Last Friday night, the members of the Headquarters Battery, 114th F. A., Grenada's home company, were honored by an American Legion sponsored dance, with Eddie Hale's ten-piece orchestra, at the Community House in Grenada. In appreciation of this honor, the following letter was sent to the Legion Commander, Mr. J. M. Talbert, by the officers and men:

The officers and men of Headquarters Battery, First Batallion, 114th Field Artillery, Grenada, Mississippi, want to take this means to express our deep appreciation of you and the American Legion in making the entertainment Friday evening possible.

We all enjoyed the dance very much and appreciate the interest of the American Legion more than we can express. Your efforts and sacrifices for your country and your continuation of good work since 1918 shall be an inspiration to every member of this organization.

Thanking you and the American Legion again, and again saying that we do ppprecIate you and the American Legion very much, and assuring you that we are at your service any time we are called.

Moss Brothers Take Nash Agency

Moss Brothers, composed of Messrs. Will Moss and J. D. Moss, with the former in active charge, have taken over the local franchise for the sale of the well-known Nash cars. Moss Brothers Motor Company is the firm's name.

These gentlemen were pioneer Chevrolet dealers in this territory but relinquished their Chevrolet franchise several months ago, and, since that time, have investigated the agency possibilities of a number of other cars, and finally settled on the Nash car.

They recently brought in from Memphis distributor, Jeff Hicks Motors, a representative lot of their new cars, which are now on display at their showroom on Main Street.

Their repair and service department, which was not discontinued with the relinquishment of the Chevrolet franchise is still in full swing.

"Hill Council" Proposed By Byron Hunter

Noting the success that has met the efforts of the Delta Council, Mr. Byron Hunter and associates have suggested the possibility and the desirability of the formation of a similar organization in the hill section. Mr. Hunter, the temporary chairman and secretary has addressed the following letter to interested parties in the hill territory:

"You have been chosen as one whose services will be freely given in the interest of all the people who live in this section.

"There is a demand for some agency competently to aggressively attack the common problems of this area with which we as individuals, are powerless to cope.

"With certain objectives in mind it is proposed that a HILL COUNCIL be formed in answer to this demand. The proposed Council to consist of a unit of some 10 or 15 counties or any others that might wish to join if the interests of their people are common, their problems are common, and the possibilities for future development are common.

"Some of the main objectives would be EQUITABLE FARM LEGISLATION, Further Development of Livestock Industry and Work toward the early completion of the State Highway Program and the construction of additional farm-to-market and feeder roads as quickly as possible. Naturally many other projects would come before us from time to time.

"It is highly probably that the major part of our first year would be devoted to farm legislation. While we do know that most any organization we might perfect would be too small to influence the Farm Program in its entirety we do beleive that the proposed Council would be successful in ironing out a good many features which are grossly discrimatory against this section.

"For example, under the present Farm Act this section only has an allotment of approximately 15 percent of its tilled acres while other sections have about 45 percent. Any adjustment we might get from this discriminating situation would mean thousands upon thousands of dollars to this area in increase of crops and additional benefits. Of course, the professional men and merchants would receive their share of this also.

"We would have the proposed Council in high gear by the beginning of the coming year and be on its toes when Congress meets.

"May I hear from you as to your wishes?

BYRON HUNTER

"P. S. Of course, any undertaking like this would mean so much to all of us would necessarily call for the expenditure of considerable money. If enough think this move wise and are interested, we will call a meeting to devise means to raise funds".

Mrs. S. A. Morrison Division Sales Chairman of "University Greys"

Grenada, Miss., Dec. 2, 1940

Dear Mr. Editor:

As stated in last week's Grenada County Weekly, something more was to be stated as to the merits of this very valuable book just off the press. I wish to state that twelve years ago Mrs. Calvin S. Brown, a brilliant and talented alumna of our State University, was asked by its Chancellor, (Dr. Hume) to write a history of "The University Greys". After thinking the matter over most carefully and searching the records to be had on the University files; those of Lafayette county; of our State Archives and History Department and finally of the War Department at Washington, together with letters and stories from every available source, she sends forth a book which will charm the boys and girls of today, and delight every lover of true history, even of maturer minds, especially so in this hour of strife and carnage across the seas. It makes us look back on another day when our best and bravest lads were called out to defense of home and country. When you have read this book you will know our (then) Chancellor made no mistake when he called on one with an able brain and willing heart to immortalize the prowess and patriotism of our "University Greys" (young college boys,) who formed a company on the Campus of their Alma Mater.

Company "A" of the 11th Mississippi Regiment went out to the Army of Northern Virginia in 1861, and stayed with General Lee to Appomattox going "OVER THE WALL" at Gettysburg, a grade higher than any part of the army, though their Division leader fell, leaving one of these boys to give the order "to charge."

Having read Mrs. Brown's book carefully, I commend it unreservedly to lovers of true history; to red-blooded, patrtiotic men and women both old and young.

I am now asking that you endeavor to get your Chapters to see the vital importance of investing in this book for the good of this and generations to come. It is readable and informative.

Thanking you for what you may do in the way of pushing it, I am

Most faithfully yours,

Mrs. Secrest A. Morrison,
Division Sales Chairman.

OLD SOLDIERS VISIT NEW SOLDIERS

(W. W. W.)

On Sunday afternoon, Messrs. Keene Huffington and Harry Greenfield and I payed a visit to the Fair Grounds where the Headquarters Battery, First Batallion, 114th Field Artillery is in camp preparatory to going to permanent training camp at Camp Blanding, Florida; and on Monday noon, Mrs. Whitaker, Mr. Greenfield and I were privileged to share with the troops the very wholesome, well-prepared noon meal.

From these two short visits, I am prepared to say that I have never seen a more orderly camp or a more orderly group of young soldiers. This unit may not be as large as John Pershings A. E. F., but it functions just as smoothly, if not more so.

The unit is fully organized to take care of its own members. It has a guard, functioning just like any military guard; it has its own mess hall, its own kitchen, and its own group of K. P's, and cooks; it has its own infirmary, its own canteen, its own messenger service; in short, it is a self-contained, independent unit.

We went into the orderly room and were shown the many forms which have to be made, and found that they were little different from the forms that I used to make out and help make out in the "old" Headquarters Company, which, by the way, was Grenada's volunteer contribution to World War No. 1. I did note that the Service Records were, if anything, more complete and contained more space. Mr. Huffington, a banker, was amazed at the amount of record-keeping "called paper work" which is necessary in even a small military unit. Yet all of this "paper work" is necessary in an organization so large as the United States Army, where one individual soldier is just one of millions of others. I am sure that I could find out, if I cared to, exactly where I was on any and every particular day during 1917-1919, by writing to the Adjutant General of the Army, who has my Service Record and all of the many other papers pertaining to my service. The same is true of EITHER of the millions of men who, since the Mexican War, have been in the U. S. Army.

We were conducted by Captain Shaw all over his "army" and stopped first in the barracks, formerly one of the exhibit buildings. The cots were lined up as if with a straightedge, one line parallel to the East wall, another line parallel to the West wall. Two stoves keep the building comfortable. A radio and a Victrola furnish plenty of music, and likely too much music for one of the boys on "kitchk fatigue." Each soldier seems to have four woolen blankets, two more than each of us old soldiers enjoyed(?). Each has a cot and a straw-filled mattress. The boys seem to have mighty good clothes, far better than I had, but I understand that the clothing now used is to be replaced by much better, and more uniform clothing when the camp in Florida is reached.

This unit, even though composed of only about 70 men, has its own canteen where regular army prices for tobacco products are in effect. 15 cents for cigarettes, for example. (No government stamps are required on tobacco used by army canteens.) Corporal Irby presided at the canteen.

Scrupulous cleanliness is maintained in the barracks, in the mess hall and kitchen, and in and about camp everywhere. Arrangements were made by the Commanding Officer for use of the showers at the Grenada [illegible] and frequent baths are compulsory.

While I was there, on neither occasion did I hear an oath and I understand that the use of the company [illegible] is recognized as a very unnecessary habit, to a minimum. As for the boys calling each other the [illegible] of names often used in some parts of the army, that practice will never start.

The fate of these boys, like the fate of all boys subject to military duty, is uncertain with world conditions as they are; but it should be a source of consolation to the parents of those boys (as it is to my wife and me) that THEIR boy is to be associated with such a splendid bunch of young fellows, and that THEIR boy is to be under the command of officers whose prime primary interest is to take the best care possible of their son. A splendid spirit of cooperation between officers and men, between non-coms and privates, and between private and private, was evident.

I spent two years in Regimental Headquarters. I saw colonels come and go; I saw Captains come and go; I saw everything from my place in the "heart" of the regiment. In those two years, I never saw a unit where there was a greater degree of cooperation, willingness to do, respect for authority, and better treatment, consistent with proper discipline, of men by officers, than I saw with my own eyes at the Fair Grounds.

We were urged to eat supper Sunday night, but did not do so, but we did see the spread on the table for the boys who had not yet fully digested the bountiful Sunday noon meal. Cheese peaches, potato chips, bread, and plenty of fixings, did tempt the irresolute appetite of the boys, as well it should. On Monday, however, the three men aboard in the first aragraph did eat dinner with Captain Shaw, Lieut. McCormick and Lieut. Davis. We had the same food, prepared at the same stove, as the boys did, and it was good and plenty. Those old "32 cal." beans, reminiful of the World War days, salmon croquetts, hominy, some fine bread pudding concocted by Cook Thomason, and other things, and again plenty of it.

Naturally there is a good deal of sentiment for my wife and me in the name "Headquarters Company", particularly THE Headquarters Company of Grenada, for the reason that I was a member of the "old" company, I took my wife as a bride to Camp Beauregard where THE company was stationed, and I was still in THE Headquarters Company when our first son was born, with six thousand miles of earth and water between the wife and son, and me. It therefore looks to us to be THE thing to do for our son, this boy born under the Headquarters banner to be a part of the "new" Headquarters Battery; and God knows that both of us pray that we did not urge him wrongly when we sorter hinted that, as he was eligible for service, and that military service for him was inevitable, it would likely be a good thing for him to join the "home" company. We still think it was THE thing to do after both of us visited the camp and saw with our own eyes how things were going.

EDITOR'S NOTE: We are sending a copy of this issue to the parents of every boy in the company so that they too can see, through our eyes, if they cannot come and see for themselves, how things are moving at camp.

Brother Richardson, of The Tocsin at Bidiarcla, and a pretty good sort of fellow, honored this office with a call Saturday. While here, he also visited his cousin, Mr. C. C. Richardson.

Ain't they sweet.

The Draft Board is grinding 'em out with meticulous care. There is no immediate necessity for hurry, for Uncle Sam is getting almost enough men by the volunteer system to fill present gaps in the mess line.

Who of the old Headquarters Company remembers how hard it was to get a pass out of Grenada during the Spanish War.

Every parent of boys in the Headquarters Battery should receive the GCW for these two reasons: first, they should have the GCW even in peace time; and, second, Corporal W. W. Whitaker, Jr., will have a column containing doings at Camp Blanding every week; and it is likely that pictures of individual boys will be run frequently. This column should be of paramount interest to all our readers particularly to parents of the boys. The soldier should send the paper to his parents for he will have more "free" money than the parents. Now here is our offer: tell Corporal Whitaker, "Send the GCW to mama, I will pay you $1.50 for transmission to your paw, on either my first or on my second pay day." Give him the name and address, and the paper will start at once. Ordinrily we charge $2.00 for papers going out of Grenada County, but we will send it to the boys' parents anywhere for $1.50 per year.

I guess we are going to have to begin refusing new subscribers pretty soon, as we will soon get tired of printing and folding so many papers. That's work. However, we have not reached that point yet. In fact, we guaranteed to take any new one with cash money (or a good pomise) until Jan. 1st, 1941.

The GCW plant must be a healthful place to work. Our Mr. Greenfield now weighs over 200, while our Mr. Horn has gained 8 pounds since he started on October 10. Believe it or not.

We cut off a bunch last week. That bunch was notified about a month ago. We notified another bunch last week. Their time is limited, strictly limited. No payee, no washee, as the Chink said. But, by the way, a good excuse will do for money a while.

Withot realizing it, as we have been growing so fast, we have overlooked mentioning several new subscribers, among them an old subscriber, Mr. T. E. Clark of Route 5. Mr. Clark, the father of a fine family, lives just inside Montgomery County, and once served as road inspector.

Dr. J. R. Cunningham, Former Beloved Pastor of Grenada Presbyterian Church, Appointed Pres. of Davidson College

Doctor John Rood Cunningham, 49-year-old pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Winston-Salem, N. C. recently announced his decision to accept the offer of the college's trustees to become president of that Presbyterian institution.

Announcement of the acceptance of the presidency by Dr. Cunningham, who was elected at a called meeting of the trustees on November 10 at Davidson, was made by J. Archie Clannon of Concord, chairman of the trustee's nominating committee.

Mr. Cannon expressed his happiness at the decision of the popular Winston-Salem pastor to succeed Dr. Walter L. Lingle as president of Davidson. In its study of men available for this important office the committee investigated 177 persons who had been suggested for the Davidson presidency, the committee made known at the trustees' meeting following the election of Dr. Cunningham.

The Winston-Salem clergyman is expected to take over the duties of office at the spring term of the college, said Mr. Cannon. The spring term begins about February 1. The formal inauguration of the new president, however, will likely follow a year from next commencement, it was thought, very likely as the principal event of the 1942 commencement program. At that time the institutions of higher learning throughout the nation will be invited to send representatives to Davidson for the formal inauguration program.

Dr. Linge, who has served as president of Davidson since 1929, is expected to continue to maintain his home in Davidson. Dr. Lingle had asked about two years ago to be relieved of the duties of the presidency at the commencement last year but at that time the nominating committee's report was not ready and since that time it has been energetically engaged in carrying out its assignment of searching for the best equipped man available for the responsible office.

Dr. Lingle could not be reached at his home last night, however, and his plans after leaving the presidency of the college could not be learned.

At the meeting of the trustees at which Dr. Cunningham was elected it was thought probable that the Winston-Salem minister might wish to spend some time before February 1 in visiting other colleges and universities to study their administrative methods and consider problems that the president of a college of the standing of Davidson is likely to encounter. Should he wish to make such visits, it was agreed, the trustees would provide the expenses.

At Davidson last night's announcement that Dr. Cunningham had accepted was received with great satisfaction by students, members of the faculty and townspeople. His election had been widely approved and he will begin his new duties with the enthusiastic support of the entire college community.

Dr. Cunningham was born in Williamsburg, Mo., in 1891. He received his A. B. degree from Westminister college in Fulton, Mo., and prepared for the ministry at Louisville Presbyterian seminary. He was ordained in 1917. Dr. Cunningham holds the honorary degree of doctor of divinity from Westminister and doctor of laws from King College at Bristol in Tennessee.

During the World War Dr. Cunningham became an army Y. M. C. A. secretary, and in 1918-1919 he was a member of the Presbyterian war work council. Since that time he held pastorates here in Grenada, at Gainsville, Florida, Bristol, Tenn., and Winston-Salem, where he has served since 1936. He came to the First church at Winston-Salem after serving for six years as president of the Louisville seminary. He has served on numerous important commissions and assignments for the Southern Presbyterian church.

Dr. Cunningham married Miss Ruble Ray on August 24, 1922. They have four children, Harriet, John Boal, Walter Ray and William Clay. He is a member of the Rotary Club, Phi Kappa Phi, and Beta Theta Pi.

(Contributed by Mrs. Guy Sultan)

What sort of a mother are you to your girl?

Do you know if your standing is god?

Do you ever take notice of yourself and check over your life with your girl as you should?

Do you ever reflect in your conduct with her?

Are you all that a mother should be?

Do you send her away when you are eager to read?

Or let her sit upon your knee?

Have you time to talk to the girl

When she comes with her questions, and tell her the truth?

Or do you neglect her and leave her alone to work ut the problems of youth?

What memories of you will she have in the years that are certain to come?

Now mothors does your girl know you today?

And do you know her as you should?

How would you answer your God, should he ask

What sort of a mother are you?

None of That Kind In The Company

We want to commend Captain James E. Shaw, Jr., upon many things but particularly for his talk to his men recently, the substance of which was this: that, so far as he knew there were no bastards and sons of b—— in his company; that, if any soldier suspected that he had found either of that class in the ranks, he should not call the suspect by that name, but should report his suspicions to the commanding officer at once, so that if, upon investigation, it developed that there was either a bastard or a son of a b——, that individual would be discharged.

That is not only good sense and good morals, but it is an impressive way to put it to the men. In other words, Captain Shaw let it be known at the outset that none of this so-called "dozen dustiness" would "go" in his company.

In some parts of the country, we have found out, those terms are terms of endearment one might say, but we are glad to note that these endearing (?) terms will not be condemned in Grenada's home company. In some units of the U. S. Army, the terms "bastard" and "son of a b——" are used as freely one to the other as "how-dy-do?" while in others they promote a fight.

Our home boys are not reared to take those terms, but it would be mighty easy for them to become accustomed to the practice, once started. It is a happy sign that such a practice has to countenanced in the bud.

We parents want our boys to come back better, not worse; we want them to be, as they are supposed to be, civilian-soldiers gentlemen; we want them to return to us with as few new bad habits and with as many new good habits as possible.

Speaking as a parent of one of Captain Shaw's men, We want to say that we are glad to entrust our son to Him and to his lieutenants, for we feel that they are not only fine men, but fair men and efficient, humane and resourceful officers.

Dams Blowed Up

If we interpreted the new spending policy of the President aright, he intends to curtail governmental expenditures for non-defense projects and to speed up all work relating to the defense program. Mention was made of curtailing expenditures for rivers and harbors.

It is therefore evident that the people of Grenada County may lay away in moth balls for a time at least their hopes (and fears) of a huge dam on the Yalobusha River.

We believe the President is absolutely right in his program of utilizing most of the man-power and most of the money power of the Nation in promoting the defense and preparation programs. Landing fields, strategic military roads and other improvements looking to a better prepared nation are of prime and of pressing importance; while dams, and new court houses, and such non-vital things can wait.

It is possible that the dam on the Coldwater River will be completed for that piece of construction has been started, but, in our opinion, this generation will see neither a dam on Yalobusha nor a dam on Yokena. The Yokena Dam has not passed the blue print stage. The Yalobusha Dam has not reached that point. If the United States government has any limit to its borrowing and spending power, that limit will have been reached, if not exceeded by the time the defense program is completed.

If you are either depending upon dams on the Yalobusha Rivers or worrying lest dams be built on this river, turn over and go back to sleep. We are not looking for them soon, if ever.

British Censorship Rules Changed

It is apparent that British censorship has relaxed to the extent that some of the horrors of the seige are being relayed by the correspondents to the United States. Obviously, the horrors have been there all of the time, but the policy of British censorship then was to cause optimism concerning Britain's chances among American readers. This policy of painting everything with rosy paint seems to have resulted in making Americans believe that Britain was perfectly safe and perfectly capable of winning the war against the Axis without much help from America. This style of propaganda was "working" too well, so the change in color of the paint used to depict wartime conditions. The present type of tales coming from Britain is designed to promote sympathy for the British cause, to make Americans alert to Britain's dangers, to boost the flagging spirit of helpfulness, and, in the last analysis, to cause America to get into the war on Britain's side.

This gloomy news, however, might have the opposite effect. It might cause Americans to believe that the cause of Britain was a hopeless one. It might bring to the mind of Americans the uselessness of the policy of "throwing good money after bad," and might, in the end, defeat the very purpose it was intended to attain, that of More Help to Britain.

Certainly this change in censorship policy has had quite an effect on the "man on the street," and this "man" is the man who finally determines the policies of this nation. The new type of "news" has caused the average reader to doubt, where maybe he never doubted before, Britain's ability to emerge victorious from the war. It has caused him to think that maybe after all The Lone Eagle ws right when he advocated vigorous preparation at home and the curtailment of export of war materials to ANY nation.

Abut they sweet.

Jim Shaw may have a small "army" at the Fair Grounds, but it is functioning as smoothly as the AEF functioned.

Take your capsules, boys, just like Doctor Roosevelt prescribed them.

To Do Or Not To Do, That's The Question

The county court house in Grenada has undergone some very extensive repairs; it has been remodeled, renovated and added to. The aggregate cost, shared by the county and the WPA, goes away up over ten thousand dollars. Included in the program of rehabilitation was a toilet room, several feet under the added vault of the Chancery Clerk. It is a fine toilet, fitted witht fine contraptions. It is aeons ahead of the corn cob area. It would do credit to any public building, not exen excluding the State Capitol in Jackson. Unfortunately, however, the level of the toilet floor is below the level of the city sewer line that served the old resting places at the court house. Even the WPA and Roland Wall can not make water go up hill, or sewerage flow to a higher level. "Water seeks its level" is a fundamental law that even President Roosevelt can not annul. Therefore, it has developed that our county court house is equipped with the latest developments in commodes, but are up against the Law of Gravity, at which inexorable mandate of Nature they stand disconcerted.

Several helpful suggestions have been made anent the situation, but each of them is open to successful attack.

It was suggested that the new toilet room be used as a meeting place of the county board of supervisors, as that all-important body has been driven from pillar to post by the advent of this and that Federal agency seeking quarters in the court house, and the public continue to use the old 1890 style toilets in the back yard. This is open to two objections: first, that should the supervisors be installed in that warm, commodious place, another Federal alphabetical organization would develop and roust the supervisors from their new "home," and second, the whiskey drinkers objected to this arrangement because they, having already preempted the old toilets for social drinking bars, do not want their peace and serenity disturbed by some fellow with "Nature" biting at his heels.

It was suggested that the siphon principle, used by the Los Angeles aqueduct construction engineers in lifting the water over the Rocky Mountains and dumping it into the valley of sunny California, be used. The employment of this principle, however sound from an engineering standpoint, presupposes the "starting" of the siphon, and this starting would necessitate some form of suction, or sucking, and, as no one has been found with either the proper amount of suction power or the incentive to suck such a distasteful siphon—that plan must be disregarded.

Another brilliant mind brought forward the idea of a bucket brigade to be used in scooping up the accumulated sewage periodically, and toting it off to the river, or, at least to the branch which runs between the court house and the Peavine railroad. This is open to dual objections: it might conflict with the city and State sanitary laws, and it would be rather expensive, especialy in the green apple and water melon seasons.

The man who suggested that both the old toilet room and the new toilet room be abandoned for use as originally intended, and these new three and four-holers put up by the WPA be built, soon found his plan untenable because the city law specificly says that no WPA toilet will be tolerated when the premises is within reach of the sewer line, laterally, if not longitudentally. No one can deny that the new toilet is within reach of the sewer line, for it is. The city ordinance did not cover the longitude of the question, as that point was not brought up at the time of passing the ordinance.

It is possible, of course, from an engineering point of view to install pumps, like Greenwood uses to pump water that pours into that town during floods, and pump the sewage up the three or four feet that lies between the level of the toilets and the level of the sewer. This might cost several thousand dollars, and the county, while in good shape financially, wants to stay that way.

The simple thing to do, of course, is for the city to lower the sewer line, as this writer (then on the Water Committee) promised the county officials that the city would do; but, maybe, this is too simple a remedy. Everyone in that part of our little city, it should be said, is either handicapped, or faces future handicap, from the present arrangement of the sewer lines.

There was no written, legal contract between the City and County with regard to the lowering of the sewer and, it might be said, that the city is not legally bound to lower the line. But, there is such a thing as gentlemen's agreements even between officials of the county and officials of the city, and these agreements, even if made by the officials verbally and informally, and if these agreements are in the common interest, should be respected and observed, and carried out—especially when the need is so apparent and so great.

The interests of the County of Grenada and the interests of the City of Grenada are identical. These two legal entities should work together in harmony. Such things as the necessary lowering of a sewer line should not stand in the way of harmony.

To do, or not to do, that's the question. Or can the potential customers of these new toilets "hold" out long enough for the unraveling of the miles of red tape necessary to make a WPA project of the lowering of the sewer line; and would such a delay be consistent with the present sewer extension policy of the city?

The "Hill Council"

Byron Hunter, temporary chairman and secretary of the proposed Hill Council, has a darn good idea in uniting the hill people in efforts to present a united front to lawmakers, whether State or National, particularly in the matter of cotton acreage.

The Delta Council has been a powerful influence in promoting the interests of the Delta. Numerically small, the Delta people learned that it was a better policy to unite in common interest and present an unbroken front. They have consistently sent good men to the legislature and to Congress, perhaps on the theory that a few good men were better than many sorry run-of-the-mill men. What they lacked in number, or quantity, was made up with brains.

We believe that Byron "has something" in his ideas, and we believe that, once explained to the people, the plan will go over.

To say the least, we hill fellows are getting nowhere with our forces divided.

LET'S REMEMBER OUR MANNERS
(An Editorial)

Recently something has come up to some of our athletic activities that is most unlike Grenada Hi School students. Several have been noticed booing and heckling our opponents. This was noticeable at our last football game and our first basket-ball game. Conduct of this kind is not only very unsportsmanlike, but it is harmful to the reputation of the school.. The actions of the few can be very harmful sometimes. Visitors who come to Grenada to watch their home teams play might become embittered at the school and the town as a whole because of the misconduct of some thoughtless students. We should be careful of our action when Grenada is host to an out-of-town team. We should try to make our visitors feel at ease and enjoy themselves rather than try to rattle them by booing and make them feel ill-at-ease by constant heckling. Grenada has never been known as a school with a bad reputation. Let's not be the cause of its getting such a reputation now.

Let us be proud of our football team and its splendid record. We beleive this year's team is one of the best produced in Grenada in recent years. They very consistently played a good game and in their two defeats they were glorious indeed.

Congratulations to the team and the coaches on a very successful year and may we do even better next year than we did this year.

As someone expressed it—Truly, the lamb tied a most painful knot in the tail of the lion Friday night, Nov 22.

CAKE WALK

Thursday afternoon the band gave a cake-walk, a novel idea, to raise funds for the band. Since the cakes were donated the band cleared $3. for each walk, for tickets for each walk were ten cents and thirty people walked each time. When the band began to play, the walkers went around the numbered circle. As soon as the band stopped, each walker stopped on whatever number he happened to be. Then a number was drawn, and the person standing on the lucky number got the cake. Because of the whole-hearted way in which the citizens of Grenada contributed to the cake-walk, the band cleared about $50.00 for new music and instruments.

CHAPEL PROGRAM

After a selection of songs, Mr. J. C. Hathorn was the speaker of the chapel program of November 27. In his talk Mr. Hathorn said that American greatness comes not from its resource or its wide fields, but from the character of the American people. He then quoted some great Americans and said that each quotation stood for some great American principle. The great principles of which Mr. Hathorn spoke were the principles of using only true Americans in crises of preserving our Federal Union, of keeping the country undivided in its issues, of each person's keeping his allegiance to his government, and of not measuring American rights by the bluster of dictators.

BASKET BALL GAME

Thursday night, November 25, the Grenada Girls Basketball team battled with Gore Springs in a very close game. After a hard struggle, in which Camilla Smith, Mary Lou Cullens, Marjorie James, Margaret Cannon, Boblye Gattis, Hazel Turner, Ruthie Lee Morrow, Jewell Terry and Billie Guy Thomas, the captain for the team played a splendid game, the girls were edged out by a narrow margin of 18 to 16.

The boys game was a smashing victory for Grenada—Led by Tommy Houston the captain for the night, Bedford Thompson, Paul Hill, James Thomas, and Griffin Thomas the boys came out with the high school of 29-12. Substitutes were Edgar Turnipseed, Leon Provine, Bobby Townes, and Millow Marascalco.

CHEER LEADERS

Now that the football season has ended, we call especial attention to our cheerleaders. Since there was no regular cheering squad this year, these students have of their own free will expended their efforts to keep up the spirits of both the spectators and the players. We give a grateful vote of thanks to Tommy Houston, Camilla Smith, and Billy Foster for the service they have rendered the school.

FOOTBALL BOYS

The football season which has just ended, means the last season for several of our notable players who are Seniors this year. To Dale Harper, Thomas Bell, Charles Kenwright, F. Marascalco, W. B. Bell, and E. R. Smith we also give our thanks for the splendid way in which they have served the school.

NEW PUPIL

The Junior Class welcomes a new student, Jack Key, from New Orleans.

ODE TO POOR KEET-ON

If you are ever mad or hurt
And want someone to beat on
Just call, Line—486
And ask for "Poor" Kee-ton.

If ever the world and all go wrong
And the clouds hide the Sun
We'll all howl in one great voice
"Blame it on 'Poor' Kee-ton".

ASSEMBLY PROGRAM

The first Assembly program of the year was a performance by a deep-sea diver, Captain Art Hook, sponsored by the Senior Class. Besides his very interesting tales of the sea and a few helpful hints, such as the one about the method for detecting copper poisoning, Captain Hook brought all his diving equipment and several very beautiful pictures of life under the sea.

WASTE BASKET

Lil York seems to have taken a "Penn" in hand during the holidays. You could also tell Lill about Kenneth Youngblood, a ring with a big O on it, a certain Gene.

Heard about L. D. Boone's new romance?

Why did Camilla Smith's opinion of Moorhead go up so suddenly afte. Friday night?

Marguirite Stanley had a rather attractive (masculine, girls) visitor from Greenwood Sunday.

Pearl and Mary Martindale visited Sara Lee in Birmingham during the holidays.

Our Grenada Soldiers

Mrs. W. W. W.

After twenty two years I find myself seated at the Captain's table in the Mess Hall of Uncle Sam's Army.

On Monday, the Editor and Harry Greenfield and I were honored by being guests at Captain Shaw's table at the army post at Grenada Fair Grounds.

Seated at this table were Captain Shaw, Lieutenants Max McCormack and E. C. Davis and us. The noonday meal was served piping hot. The boys on duty in the kitchen are splendid cooks and right here I would like to say that better coffee just isn't being made this season.

In this cordial atmosphere there is something else that gets you. You have a feeling of being a witness, not for the first time, because these boys are almost identical to the ones we saw in Camp Beauregard of a true fellowship a dignified and representative fellowship, that does not exist anywhere but in a camp made up of men who are personal friends. The officers' attitude is as respectful and as punctilious as that of the private in the ranks.

This means a lot to parents, and to all citizens who have the Grenada company's interest at heart.

The trip through the barracks gave us the impression that although army life may not tolerate many (or any) frills, at least the men have comfortble cots, blankets and pillows. They have their lockers at the foot of their cots. In this building you see some strangers: you see towseled headed boys who have just taken a nap (possibly been on duty the night before) and you see all of them wearing the same uniform. This insignia, the uniform, means that as long as there are two men left in the company, there are two friends left. They are our ideal soldiers—The Volunteers in Uncle Sam's Army.

AN OBSERVATION OF GRAMMAR SCHOOL LUNCH ROOM—A WPA PROJECT

(By Addie H. Barrow, Teacher)

With a deep sense of appreciation for the lunch room in the Elementary School we desire to express our thanks through the press and to give a few observations which we have made.

The lunch room is under the capable supervision of Mrs. Elam, and the following workers plan and prepare substantial meals, at a very reasonable cost with Mrs. Waugh in charge, Mrs. Bickerstaff, Mrs. Foy, and Mrs. Walker as helpers. These workers begin their duties with the school day and remain on the job most of the day. After serving at noon, they are making preparation for the next day's meal.

The lunch room is sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association, with Mrs. L. E. Noble as lunch room chairman. The Fortnightly Club very graciously cooperates with the P. T. A. and furnishes good, rich, nourishing milk to all the children taking meals.

This project is made possible through the generosity of friends in Grenada who are interested in the welfare and proper physical development of little children. The workers in this enterprise are emloyed and paid by the government, and they render good service.

In Grenada alone, fifty-one children were fed 840 hot meals in sixteen days in November. Four school days were not counted as they were Thanksgiving holidays and election day on which no lunches were served. Ninety-eight per cent of the children being served in the Grenada Lunch Room showed a gain in weight of from one to five pounds since the beginning of the school term.

We who teach are grateful for this lunch room, and for the substantial meals furnished our children. To those who are responsible we are reminded of the Master's admonition: "In as much as you have done it unto one of the least, you have done it unto me."

That The Wheels Of National Defense Will Continue To Turn - - - Because The Private Electric Utility Industry Is

ALREADY FULLY PREPARED

FACTS YOU WANT TO KNOW

American Power Grid—1940

The American Power Grid of 1940 consists of over 300,000 miles of high-tension electric power lines of 11,000 volts and over—supplying electric power to every section of the Nation. Ninety per cent of this grid is privately owned and operated. The electrical capacity of the United States today is approximately 42,000,000 kilowatts—more than four times that of 1918—and greater than that of France, Germany and the United Kingdom combined.

Your security—the security of the Nation—depends upon the speed and effectiveness of the National Defense Program. Ships, tanks, airplanes, guns—are but a few of the hundreds of items so vital in this emergency. And yet, electric power is even more vital than these—because without power the wheels of defense industry could not turn.

But they are turning and will continue to turn because the private electric utility industry—with American initiative and enterprise—is willing, able and READY to meet the Nation's electric power needs. This state of electrical preparedness has been brought about by the experience, planning, and vision of holding companies.

This is WHY you can be sure that the wheels of industry will turn—and that you can also enjoy the many benefits of electric service in your homes, stores, and factories.

Whyt Whitaker Jr.

Here are the two objectives we, the United States Army, are going to set out to accomplish: First—to create an effective fighting force; second—to sell our army to the public.

Both of the objectives must be achieved in order to create an impregnable defense—one that will adequately protect this continent, our interest on the high seas and our far reaching possessions from all enemies whomsoever.

The second objective will be the harder to achieve. If the army fails to have the respect and support of the citizenship it will be impossible to create an effective fighting force. The army wants and solicits the support of every American. You must get behind your fighting force. Officers can train men to be good soldiers; they can harden them for great hardships; in words they can put them in physical condition and instruct them in military tactics; but, the non-combatant citizens have to give them that "mental boost," give them the assurance that they are for them and will support and back them up at home. The reason that England is holding out so well goes back to the fact that the entire citizenship is behind the fighting force and they are also making great sacrifices. "Together we stand; divided we fall"—so said Abraham Lincoln, during the Civil War, and that still is an undisputed fact.

The army in order to gain the respect of the civilian must account for itself better than it has in the past. The civilian has not been all wrong in looking down on the military men they have acted pretty rough in many cases. The army wants to meet the citizens halfway—let's forget the past and look into the future—soldier needs civilian, civilian needs soldier

For the past few days the Battery has been taking hikes. These marches are from 6 to 8 miles long and are taken with packs on our backs. Some of the men get rather fired but will make the cross-country jumps OK as soon as physical fitness is obtained.

I'm sure that I express the sentiment of the entire battery when I say that the dance and free picture show given us were very much appreciated. The American Legion honored us with a dance Friday last; while Mr. Homer Williams invited us to a free picture show the following Sunday afternoon.

A large percent of the battery personnel attended church last Sunday. In the army you are not required to go to the House of the Lord, however, you are encouraged to go. Also, it does not matter which church you attend—Baptist, Presbyterian, Episcopal, Methodist, Central Baptist, Catholic, Church of Christ, or any other one in existence; religious beliefs are not hampered.

***

The men, quarters, equipment and grounds were inspected by Col. Albert Lake Wednesday of this week. He found everything in order and we don't expect any "red checks" on our record.

***

On Wednesday of last week the enlisted personnel of Hq. Btry. First Bn., 114th F. A. underwent a physical examination, conducted by four army doctors. This examination was a stiff one and the doctors disqualified seven of our men, leaving us with sixty-nine enlisted men and four officers—we ordinarily had seventy-eight.

Here are the several men discharged and disqualified: Edgar Lee Boteler; Jesse Alton Strider; Higginbotham; Raymon Collins; George Edward Denley, Jr.; John Burt Lane; William Louis Smith; Jesse James Tribble, and James Keeton Ward.

After the examination was completed and the disqualified ones made known there fell a gloomy silence over the camp. We will sorely miss these men. They will ever live in this battery's fond memories.

Pvt. William Roane, our wisecracker deluxe, is not known to this paper's readers. He is affectionately known as "Hoot" by every member of the organization. He can't quite turn wood into stone or clay into paper dollars but he can turn gloom into gladness. He always has something funny to say; he always has a reply no matter what the circumstances are. While taking the physical examination the doctor testing his hearing would call out numbers: "B-21, C-5, H-75 C-76, F-2, etc." "Hoot" barked out "hold your card fellows, it might not be bingo." For the first few days our men ate at the Star Cafe and the Barwin Hotel. "Hoot" made the first trip to the Barwin and had his lunch; when the truck returned to carry the remainder of the boys to the Star Cafe "Hoot" remained on the truck. Captain Shaw caught him in the act of eating at both places and asked him what he was going to plead. He immediately said: "self preservation Sir." Yes, "Hoot" is quite a humorist. The battery wouldn't know what to do without him, and don't know what to do with him!
